In the night voices are calling
Through the past footsteps are falling Long ago... so far from this world that turns to steal our souls
We were the free, we were the faithful

Look... turn your head to the sky
I'll be riding
Taste the earth and the wind and the rain... again

Follow me, back to the old days
Break the chain of today and it's cold way
Why should we belong to a worlds that turns to steal our souls
We can be free, we can be faithful

Turn your head to the sky
We'll be riding
We're the earth and the wind and the rain

I believe that we are forever
Our divinity cannot be severed
Why should we belong to a world that turns to steal our
souls
Only the free can ever be faithful

Turn your head to the sky
We'll be riding
We're the earth and the wind and the rain
