When the thread around the pieces fall, my broken heart
Has left me to believe
That girls don't wanna, girls don't wanna leave
The starry nights without a fingerprint
I can recall, but I learned after all
That girls don't wanna, girls don't wanna fall
As you doze off alone, I'll toss and turn
As your sweet dreams dissolve, I'll crash and burn
Pry your heart from your sleeve, I still can't breathe
As you stir in your sleep, I hope you think of me
A blissful way she whispered in my ear
Before she left, had me so convinced
That girls don't wanna, girls don't wanna leave
And Juliet's romantic company,
Wins out the war, and I learned after all
That girls don't wanna, girls don't wanna fall
As you doze off alone, I'll toss and turn
As your sweet dreams dissolve, I'll crash and burn
Pry your heart from your sleeve, I still can't breathe
As you stir in your sleep, I hope you think of me
I build a wall
I hope I know, another
'Cause when I'm home
Your painful memory, is always haunting me
As you doze off alone, I'll toss and turn
As your sweet dreams dissolve, I'll crash and burn
Pry your heart from your sleeve, I still can't breathe
As you stir in your sleep, the thought is killing to me
When I see you around, my eyes grow wide
When you wasted my heart, I cried/died inside
Pry your heart from your sleeve, I still can't breathe
As you stir in your sleep, I hope you think of me
I hope you think of me, I hope you think of me.
