See my life, the failure, you'll make the same mistakes a child, marriage, your choices, they're all in your hands

Where were you when I needed you Your interference is not welcome now

I can't believe these words showing feelings that he never had, such a human behaviour did she teach him these feelings of hate

Stop! I want you to listen There is so much at stake the child, victim of choices She could never make

I listened but you never spoke this child is not yours

What are they talking about Her voice full of compassion She's warning of things from the past a victim of choices Give her a chance to explain why she's here She will interfere with all that we are Maybe her fear is a sign she's for real Her fear is too late, she is to blame

Fighting and blaming, they don't know much more
It scares and excites me, the past repeats itself

NO! We're all victims

I try to feel and understand That their distant past is like my life today
It's a circle, a curse
I am one of the victims
One of their, one of your victims
