

Paper Rival "Cassandra"

Visit "Cassandra" on MotoLyrics.com

I could see myself living in the ocean with nothing new to say I've got a grievance with devotion no matter where I sleep
I could see myself happy in my old age with no one around to save
And no one above my grave
Every day I spin the globe and think of life somewhere else
This is a necessary evil that I found in myself I could see myself cursing at the ocean with nothing new to say I've got a grievance with commotion no matter how loud I scream
I could see myself happy in my old age with no one
around to save
There's no one above my grave
Every day I spin the globe and think of life somewhere
else
This is a necessary evil that I found in myself
The sound of school bells ringing makes it's way into my head
Even when I find a place that suits me fine
Every day I spin the globe and think of life somewhere
else
This is a necessary evil that I found in myself

Visit Paper Rival page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.