The light from the east coast
Off your eyes screams please don't go,
'Cause I can't do this alone
And tonight, as I leave notes
On the side, of your bed post
They all shows signs of hope and you say,

Sing to me slowly the words that you wrote me
Each line racing through your mind
Will you wait for me?
After I fall asleep

So lets live in this day
I know your dyin' to say it
Lets just live in this moment
And pretend like we own it
We will all grow older,
But with you here I'll die slower

Sing to me slowly the words that you wrote me
Each line racing through your mind
Will you wait for me?
After I fall asleep

We will all grow older,
But with you here I'll die slower
We will all grow older,
But with you here I'll die slower

Marry me on this boat
Tied to a rope in the ocean
So far out to sea
No one will ever find us where we're going
Lets toast to the great unknown,
Fingerprints mark where we grew old
As I write to you knowing,
These notes won't find where were going

We will all grow older,
But with you here I'll die slower
