Let's not pretend, it was a popular decision
Let's face the facts, I'm just barely legal
But you should get this straight, your opinion never mattered
And I've still got more to get off my chest, more to get off my chest

If I make the first move then I know you'll point the finger
If I'm going to hell, then you're coming with me
You can't judge my face
By one little expression

'Cause I got more heart in this tiny body
Than you've got in your great big army
And what's more? Is you gave up on me

Submitter's comments:Â

This song was supposed to appear on the tracklist of Brand New Eyes, but the guys weren't okay, so this song was never released. So Hayley decided to post the lyrics on LiveJournal.
