Letters smear like butterfly wings
for this pulse
which lost itself into mechanisms and diagrams.
she found me upon lonely traveled roads wading through these unforgiving waters.
through the unfamiliar voice of achievements and this coincidence.
these are the subtle moments that frame us with her voice now heard across these great distances.
we couldn't keep our arms around each other long enough to fall in love.
silence clenches this throat in ten years past.
