Sometimes when I'm walking through the night
the darkest time
I'm looking through the windows open wide the light inside

Someone else's life seems always fine while mine cries
Because I'm looking in from the darker side outside

I'm hiding outside here
from the only life so real Inside I might die
so I can't open the door so near for me

When I'm living someone else's life so peaceful inside
I wish this feeling will not ever die inside

I'm hiding outside here
from the only life so real
so I can't open the door so near

Inside I might die
so I can't open the door so near for me
