Were going down a straight curve, all along the while.
And people have you heard, all about the child.
Up above God asked you, wont you hold it down
Feeling out way through, digging up the sound.
And the blanket of hope surrounds us, feeding our every thought.
Covering us from all the bad luck, want to never be caught.

Chorus

We can see the lightening now, blinding our eyes somehow.
We will do as were told, standing by out very souls.
Wishing only what should not be, wont somebody answer me
Out of sight, not out of time, soon were running out of time.

Were going down a straight curve, thing never look the same.
Life seems so absurd, aint it time for a change.
The old ones for the new kind, you can't leave the home.
Its gonna get worse with time, but you're no longer
alone.
And if the ball rolls off sand hill road, someones there
to see it down
This cups half full is the way we chose, the only way around.

Were going down a straight curve, trying not to lose out minds.
Holding on at every turn, never keeping between the lines.
Virginias always home to us, feeding out heads with hope.
We don't think about it much, cause we know well
always know
If the time runs out on our show somehow, you'll be there to turn it back
So check your coat; you'll be here for now, realizing what we have.
