I need a catalyst, to rekindle the flame
That once burned within these fists where defeat
remains

The night has fallen down the staircase...

I need a catalyst, to rekindle the flame
That once burned within these fists where defeat
remains
One February night, we screamed our agonies
And I swear I tried to care
I tried, I tried...

But the icicles hung down like prison bars...

I need a catalyst, to rekindle the flame
That once burned within these fists where defeat
remains
One February night, we screamed our agonies
And I swear I tried to care
I tried, I tried...
(And) I lost the will to fight..
The will to fight..
(I lost the will to fight.. I lost the will to fight.. I lost it... I lost
it...
I lost the will to fight.)
