We made our plans to meet tonight under street lights of suburban U.S.A. nostalgia that I keep on playing on the mix will play that life made for you and it's telling me that we've all found something true embedded in nights like tonight and we move on let's wish on stars like we used I'll tell you how much I have missed you

We're spending all our lives, like we did tonight, knowing we can work this out, there are roads and signs, that lead us home sometime, knowing we will work it, we will work it out

We can find where this belongs like summer hymns and punk rock songs we love the outcome of our lonely life cause this season holds it's heart in hand like allergies to swollen glands we know keep growing on nights like to night as we move on let's drive these roads like we used to and pretend that the pavement still knows you

We're spending all our lives, like we did tonight,

This is one night, built from our lives, in this town we left to love, this is my life, this is my time, and I'll take you there, I'll take you all back home
