Slightly toasted
That's the way this night began
She needs to know if he's still feeling anything
She needs to know if she's still feeling him
At a party in a backroom is where the truth comes out
She can see there's no love left in his eyes
He grabs her shoulder, she tells him that it's over
Any more talk will just lead to lies

And now this fairy tale is over
He'll try to turn his shoulder
But he only wants to hold her

Time is wasting
Young hearts are racing
The night is almost over now
And he can't stop pacing
And her heart's been breaking
The night is almost over now
Over now

One eye open, you never know
Someone could completely stop her pulse
She needs to know if there's somebody better
And she needs to know if that means someone else
On a loveseat her apartment's where it all comes out
She can see there's no love left in his eyes
She fluffs her collar and tells him not to bother
Cause any more talk will just lead to lies

And now this fairy tale is over
He'll try to turn his shoulder
But he only wants to hold her

Time is wasting
Young hearts are racing
The night is almost over now
And he can't stop pacing
And her heart's been breaking
The night is almost over now
Over now

Time is wasting
Young hearts are racing
The night is almost over now
And he can't stop pacing
And her heart's been breaking
The night is almost over now
Over now
Over now
Over now
Over now
