The fire is fading but we still have to keep warm so lets curl up tonight and let the healing come on only fire can make us gold it's the only way we know it's like fire when you touch me gently all i am is burning like fire we're all alone you see one more spark just could ignite me our souls are aching but we still hold each other close this body is bruised and tired of dying from the cold so don't wait until it's gone i don't wanna miss my chance to burn
