I was the best there's ever been until i was defeated there's a way of escape and it's all cut out for me until today i swore i'd never been defeated my eyes were blind, now your all that i can see there is a hope that keeps me hanging on now there is a light that shines over the dark just you wait, and release your heavy burdens and hang on i thought that i could change things and in the end i swore you'd see but i never knew i could love you the way you first loved me you knock me down i get back up the only reason your living is to kill me but failure isn't final we're the last known survivors of everything we know
