There's more than a feeling than a differing mind to anatomy On my own who's going to hold me?
A burning heart lifts me up to my life I can't run from the truth and I won't try.
'Cause it wouldn't matter who you were in this world There's nothing on earth that we can't change But on the inside
I could never be the same.
Came into the garden babe oh you got to come on in Come into the secret garden. We're changing the way we're made And in our own eyes we're going to move the mountain. So how do you see me now? Can you see me?
Don't butter me up and tell me lies I've seen the black and white coloured in your eyes.
But trapped in a cage is not the place You can leave me or cover it up to ease your mind.
In this confusion I can always see the light into the garden. Come into the garden babe oh come on in.
..You'll never know it feels not to be one thing or the other. If there was a world without hypocrisy You never know I might just be something you need.
It wouldn't matter who you were in this world Knowing yourself is so much more Take one step forward and you open up the door. Come into the garden babe oh come on in... Come into the garden babe oh come on in.
..Come into the garden babe oh come on in...
