Under the sun nothing is new
I read the day's paper with the man on the moon
And I can't shake the feeling
Somehow I've been here before
Nothing like a heartache to remind you it's beating
Like a cut to the soul says you never stop bleeding
And a void fills the rooms
Like the obvious hole in the screen door
It's just my way to go it alone
Stand in the rain and wait for the phone

Just another silent night
Falling awake on the inside
Just another silent night
Who could have known you'd be here
To save my life

I sing hallelujah cause I do believe
That there's more to this life than just what I've seen
And maybe today is the day that you'll show me a sign

Just another silent night
Falling awake on the inside
Just another silent night
Who could have known you'd be here
To save my life

And I'm needing you now
I've got a lot to say but I never know how

It could have been a night just like this one
Hopelessly normal
Painfully numb
When you chose to reach from the heavens and open our eyes

Just another silent night
And angels descend on the hillside
Just another mother's child
Who could have known you were here to save my life
(x2)

Jesus, you saved my life

(fading)

Just another silent night

And angels descend on the hillside
