ISOLATIONISTS

music and lyrics by Jonathan Dorsey

Like a ship we drift alone
Far from land, far from home
No one speaks, they close their eyes
Close their ears while others cry
And you keep running and running
And running away from me
Yeah you keep running and running
And running away from me

Reaching out, we need to touch
But no one really does it much
Fearful eyes, distrustful stares
Modern man just does not care
And he keeps running and running
And running away from me
Yeah you keep running and running
And running away from me

If you want my song
I will surely sing it to you
If you want my heart
You know that it's yours to take away...

Stay removed, and far away
Don't understand, so we react afraid
So many people on this Earth
Will never know their special worth
Cos we keep running and running
And running away from them
Yeah we keep running and running
And running away from them
Yeah you keep running and running
And running away from me
Yeah you keep running and running
And running away from me
