Haven't you noticed,
what I keep inside Thought it was obvious, why should I hide
When it's about us both,
you read me baby
I never been this far from home

Telling me I should be grateful, to put a smile on my face But still I know I have to work hard, for it to feel okay
I know it could be different, such a big disgrace now
I never been this far from home, no, no, no, no
I never been this far from home

If I took the next train, and never came back no Didn't take the time to call you up, how would you react know Tell me would you bee crying, yourself to sleep every day and single night
I never been this far from home, no ,no, no, no,
I never been, never been this far from home, no
I never been this far from home

You can see me walking, watching the rain
Just perfect night teardrops, tell me whom to blame
I know it sounds silly, but it hurts to bee kept away know I never been, I never been,
I never been this far from home no said,
I never been no,
I never been no
never been never been no,
I never been this far from home
see I never been this far from home home
