I'll cut an X over my heart

Blood drips from the corners of the room.
As these walls scream imperfections through torn flesh and broken bones Then you'll ask me what have I done Tell me what havent you done if guilty lips are not so innocent

A bullet with your name right through my chest proving love was worth dying for
A bullet with your name right through my chest proving
love was worth dying for

Tear those wings right off your back And innocence is what you lack and when the trail leads back to me Apologies are all the same and this is how we play the game Show me a new way to bleed

A bullet with your name right through my chest proving
love was worth dying for.
A bullet with your name right through my chest proving
love was worth dying for.
A bullet with your name right through my chest proving
love was worth dying for.
A bullet with your name right through my chest proving
love was worth dying for.
