(trumpet intro)

I used to have a woman
That lived up on the hill
I used to have a woman
That lived up on the hill
She was crazy about me
Hoo-well-well, because I worked at the Chicago Mill

You can hear the womens hollin'
When the Chicago Mill whistle blow
You can hear the womens hollin'
When the Chicago Mill whistle blow
Cryin, 'Let loose my man
Hoo-well-well, please, and let him go home'

If you want a-plenty women
Boys, work at the Chicago Mill
If you want plenty women
Boys, work at the Chicago Mill
You don't have to give them nothin'
Hoo-well-well, just tell them that you will

When I went to work
I worked at the Chicago Mill
When I went to work
I worked at the Chicago Mill
So I could get plenty womens
Ooo-well-well, at my free, good, will

So, bye-bye, boys

Go on and have your thrill
So, bye-bye, boys
Go on and have your thrill
You don't need no money
Just say you work at the Chicago Mill.
