I feel the rain brush past my knees
As i kneel by your body, as i kneel by your dead body

Your stare pierces me from beneath the leaves
I look up to the sky and i'll wait with you forever
And i'll wait until the sky burns away for you to wake
The sun hides behind the hills

What we love will destroy us
Your skin looks so pale
The moonlight christens your body
I'm too young to die but i'd die for you tonight
Because there's feelings left, there's always more.
