In a trip,
In a week,
He'll be gone like the leaves that have fallen.

For his girl,
For his folks,
Cause tomorrow lives on.

I feel deception, I feel frustration,
Is it too late for a joke now?
You'll tell me one, I'll you mine,
But don't laugh, don't you cry because...

Like a breeze,
They could hear,
They talked to him cause he wasn't real.

Like a voice,
In the midnight noise,
So tomorrow'll live on.

I feel deception, I feel frustration,
Is it too late for a joke now?
Live a lifetime, under a night sky!
Don't you know that he's alright now

(Chorus)
It's not over yet,
Don't you know?
There is so much left before I let go,
And yet you mourn like a stubborn child,
Cause you're alone now!
It's not over yet,
Don't you know?
Yet they cry as he laughs cause he knows,
He's not suffering anymore,
But they're alone now.

In a dream,
In my dream,
He stares at us like he's alright now,
Cause he knows,

That we know it,
But would we ever accept it?

We feel sorry, he feels sorry,
That we know it and cry it,
He's now laughing, but never laughing,
Don't you know that he's alright now.

It's not over yet,
Don't you know?
There is so much left before I let go,
And yet you mourn like a stubborn child,
Cause you're alone now!
It's not over yet,
Don't you know?
Yet they cry as he laughs cause he knows,
He's not suffering anymore,
But they're alone now.
