Here we are where we were back on everything Went too far now we're fine back on everything So much for making it day by day Back on everything Instead of taking another way we're back on everything I want a positive role model I want a positive role model My reflection on the street Is that the way I walk? Introspection as I speak I need to change the way I talk In a changing world there's so much you could be Why can't you choose your self like your enemy? Have you ever imagined a new you? I could be someone else Somebody new Reinvention: my intention I want a positive role model I want a positive role model

I want a positive role model I want a positive role model
