"RED LETTER DAY"

Go to work and take your calls Hang the fruits of your labour on the walls
Such precision and care What does it matter if there's no one here to share

Flowers in the garden blue wine
the "Waiting for Godot"
and so much modern time?

All I want
is what you want I'm always waiting
for a red letter day

The years perfecting a stance of measured cool fade into insignificance
The moment one starts to understand What on earth
does it profit a man?

All I want
is what you want I'm always waiting
for a red letter day

For something special somehow new someone saying 'I love you'
Baby, I'm waiting
for that red letter day

You can sneer
or disappear behind a veneer of self-control
But for all of those who don't fit in who follow their instincts and are told they sin

this is a prayer for a different way

All I want
is what you want I'm always waiting
for a red letter day

Like Christmas morning when you're a kid Admit you love me
and you always did Baby I'm waiting

I'm always waiting,
I'm always waiting, waiting

For something special
somehow new
Baby, I'm hoping
