A problem becomes a problem
When you lie to your friends
When you lie to the people
When you lie to yourself

And only fools, vultures and undertakers
Will have any time for you

A problem, becomes a problem
When you let down your friends
When you let down your people
When you let down yourself and your mother

And the truth is too painful to comprehend
That you have to pretend that there isn't a problem
It's not me with the problem
It's all them with the problem
I aint their problem...

I am a pimp and a slave
I dig my bed, I make, make my grave

Alright now
