Everything seems strange, fascinating, new
So much different from what you're used to Such exciting flavours, amazing views
Unlike anything that you once knew
Not settled in but you hope you'll do
But don't forget I'm still here with you

Wherever you may go
Whatever you may say
Whatever you may do
I'll stay with you

Just going somewhere else won't change a thing
As long as you can't change something inside you
And everything you say will just be words
Until you are not able to make them true
In every mirror you see my face and
You know you can't get rid of yourself

Wherever you may go
Whatever you may say
Whatever you may do
I'll stay with you
