

Peter Krason "I Wear The Night"

Visit "I Wear The Night" on MotoLyrics.com

I wear the night, and it's a heartache, Honey
I wear the night; it's been my hardest mistake

I'm off work, after twilight, as the dark pours in, at the end of my shift Now, each stop light's, a parole line, I'm just waiting, for my sentence to lift

I wear the night, and it's a heartache, Honey
I wear the night; it's been my hardest mistake

I'm out cold, like a two-year-old, at last call, as the bartender shouts
Just when, will it be the end, for this lifestyle, learn what life's all about

I wear the night, and it's a heartache, Honey
I wear the night; it's been my hardest mistake

Neon lights rape the virgin nights, so I strain to see each star's veiled glow It's too late, to say goodbye, to say hello, just leave the tip when you go

It's time to wake up, wake up, welcome the morning
It's time to wake up, wake up, stop your mourning Wake up

Visit Peter Krason page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.