Losing light fast, there's just enough to let you know that I'm still alive Losing light fast, there's just enough to let you know that I still try It's so hard when you're the only star that shines in my sky
It's so hard when you're the only reason that I try Losing light fast, shadows chasing their way across the floor Losing light fast, and I can't see the page to read or write the words anymore
It's so hard when you're the only star that shines in my
sky
It's so hard when you're the only reason that I try
It's a burden I know for you to carry the weight
The weight of both our worlds
