From now on I'll leave the thinking to my heart
When my thoughts are wrapped in fright
And no future is insight
As I search for missing lungs
It kicks in to save the night

From now on I'll leave the thinking to my heart
From now I know, I know that it saved me, my silent
friend

When I don't know where to aim
When even different feels the same
When I'm close to apathy
It kicks in to set me free

From now on I'll leave the thinking to my heart
From now on I know, I know that it saved me, my silent
friend
We must never be apart again
I will trust no one else again

And this is what keeps me awake all night
The fear of not doing what's right
From now on I'll trust my silent friend
I'll trust no one else again

I'll leave the thinking to my heart
From now I know, I know that it saved me, my silent
friend

We must never be apart again
