His petty problems now left behind
No hesitation, purely divine
The first revelation
Was that he would be free
His second was he'd drown in grace
His frowning face replaced irresistibly
The floor meets his knees

He's come and everyone in the kingdom wears a smile
Because He's won
Oh, He's come and waves of joy spread across the kingdom
Smile because He's won the battle

All the excuses that you have brought
No explanation was ever sought
To stand before the King of Kings
To taste a kiss of life beyond
No expectations just your barren self
That's how He sees you anyway
Life is yours today

You've come and everyone in the kingdom wears a smile
Because He's won
Oh, You've come and waves of joy spread across the
Smile because He's won
The battle is won
