Your love, you're as fine as fine can be
Your beauty, worth anything I've ever seen
I try, to listen when you speak to me
Try to make you see
But what good would that do?

It's you I love and not the thought of you
It's you I love and not the thought of you
It's you I love and not the thought of you
You're the proof I use to measure what is true.

It's not what your parents hoped would be
Or how I imagine you to look at 83
I twist your story around into some fantasy
Like I always do
But what would that prove true?

It's you I love and not the thought of you
It's you I love and not the thought of you
It's you I love and not the thought of you
You're the proof I use to measure what is true.

It's you I love and not the thought of you
It's you I love and not the thought of you
It's you I love and not the thought of you
Darling it's you.

It's you I love and not the thought of you
It's you I love and not the thought of you
It's you I love and not the thought of you
You're the proof I use to measure what is true
