Your door wide open
These words you've spoken
Hang like rain clouds pending the storm

Cut me slowly
Like you owe me
I feel like being torn

Show me 'round the rooms in your house,
Down the hallway to your doubt
And I won't blame you
I won't blame you
I won't blame you

A season's ended
Our bloodlines blended
Lives change with the melting snow

There's no easier decisions
Just life we've been given
Resigned to failing control

Show me 'round the rooms in your house
Down the hallway to your doubt
And I won't blame you
I won't blame you
I won't blame you

Lay them at my table
Secrets meant for me
Life we know's not simple
This loving not for free

Show me 'round the rooms in your house
Down the hallway to your doubt
And I won't blame you
I won't blame you
I won't blame you...
