Now you know life aint fair it ain't no illusion it's full of despair there's no stopping it goes round and round and round you'll find yourself lost and nowhere to be found sit yourself alone and wonder about other peoples lives it's all the same bullshit, a hand full of lies but when all hope's lost and you feel losing the fight wait a sec, listen time to realize. who will understand? when no one else cares who will you run to? When your troubles run after you and feel your fear and what it is all about. who will be there to ease your pain? open your mind, listen... let me explain. (your family's at your back, be proud of your name.) you aint alone dealing with the worlds struggles take a look around everyone has their own hardtimes to handle just have to be strong and keep your faith alive because no matter what goes down for sure your familya will stand by this is a true testament for what really it's worth we are all one dealing with the same pains of this earth clear your mind, look ahead, stand with integrity coz no matter what happens, you've got your family.
