(David Gilmour/Bob Ezrin/Polly Samson/Nick Laird-Clowes)

Her love rains down on me easy as the breeze
I listen to her breathing it sounds like the waves on the sea

I was thinking all about her, burning with rage and desire

We were spinning into darkness; the earth was on fire

She could take it back, she might take it back some day

So I spy on her, I lie to her, I make promises I cannot keep

Then I hear the laughter rising, rising from the deep AND I make her prove her love for me, I take all that I can take

And I push her to the limit to see if she will break

She might take it back, she could take it back some day

Now I have seen the warnings screaming from all sides
It's easy to ignore them and God know I've tried
All of this temptation it turned my faith to lies Until I couldn't see the danger or hear the rising tide

She can take it back, she will take it back some day

She can take it back, she will take it back some day
