I saw the most ironic thing the day I walked Through that door. They patted me down, they Pulled my pockets inside out--all I could do
Was laugh as I thought to myself I must be Rip Van Winkle because how the fuck did this Happen? I witnessed some fights in my younger Days and I'll never forget their faces--the People I saw punched and kicked in the Head, Thugs are running the clubs at night
And I'll never forget their faces as I make Sure to tell them: Thanks for ruining those Younger days. Here's eight bucks for your Trouble, please appreciate the irony as you
Go through my pockets. I'm getting used to
It because this makes perfect sense and the Only thing that's strange is nothing fucking
Changes. Let me be security and I'll tell
You who is dangerous.
