be prepared
I know what's coming next if she's entertaining doubts I guess that you know what is best so I should
to make due with what is left and if I can't prepare myself at least I know what to expect my mind's made up about her I couldn't live without her so many times
so many times
I should have thanked god that I have her and when I'm back home safe in her arms
don't knock on her door don't pick up your phone if she's entertaining doubts how do I explain a grain of salt for her to take with the things that you say despite the distance give me trust and I will bring it home to you give me till nothing's left but patience and I will bring it home to you
she only wants to spare you and I the time we so faithfully invested she throw it in our faces you've been taken advantage of is that all I'm capable of ?
if it's just bitterness don't let it blind her
