

Dag Nasty "Typical"

now that it's gone
just admit it to yourself it was nothing special no more special than yourself
now that it's gone
won't you admit it to yourself ? another typical youth you mistook for someone else (looking through your rebel ...gray looks so good on you)
you brought your parents down you had to face your doubts you doubted everyone
just like everyone so disagreeable
of course you hated school you felt so all alone and so did all of us it's not the energy
it's not the extra time responsibility
it won't change everything an average lifespan four times what's been and gone what's unique is not your age what's unique is still in there
