(Johnny)

When his stolen gold has turned to rust
He rides off in a cloud of dust
Lookin' for a border he can cross

She'll stand by and watch him go
Wonderin' if he'll ever know
The hurt she's feelin' now, and what they've lost

(Waylon)

Angels love bad men
That's how it's always been
They give their whole hearts when they fall
Angels love bad men
That's how it's always been
Love holds their hearts against the wall

(Willie)

When his corporate day comes to an end
He rides away in his Mercedes Benz
Soon, he's lost beneath the neon sky

(Kris)

Outside of town in a suburban home
She spends another night alone
Wonders what went wrong, wonders why

(Waylon)

Angels love bad men
That's how it's always been
They give their whole hearts when they fall
Angels love bad men
That's how it's always been
Love holds their hearts against the wall
