It doesn't matter what you've done All the stupid things that I've done don't matter The problem is whether we all know Maybe we can't fight life on our own Who's to say we gotta live that way who's to take our worries away? So many things to pull me down But the way I feel when you're around don't mean anything The promise is for anyone who knows That maybe we can't fight life on our own It doesn't matter what we know Maybe we can't fight life on our own Maybe we can't find love on our own
