Happy just to be here Worried about where it all leads to Falling into love it always takes so long and I don't wanna wait
Without normal progression I know that you'd just feel too pressured
Treat it like a race no one can win
And ninety miles an hour is more than you expected Cause you need to feel protected
So I'll take my foot away from the fuel line
Fifty miles and hour is fine

Hoping you want the same things that I want Hanging on every word that you're saying Waiting for a look to tell me how well my time is spent
I don't want to waste it
Happy that you want to be here Worried how long are you gonna stay near Looking to lock down I want to be here tomorrow and every day after
