So let me paint the picture,
Take Saturday for instance,
I've been measuring the distance,
Time and space that we create
From here to Sunday.
'Cause now it's running into next week
The past few days have been so bittersweet
When minutes turn to miles
I find it hard to move my feet.

You've got me running in circles again,
'Cause even when I'm dreaming I'm right back where I started.
Just stay by my side and I'll show you forever,
Leave this behind and run away till we break the bend.

We'll never be the same again

Imagine life without me,
Erase me from existence,
Despite of your resistance
I'm living proof that
Time and space can make a change.
And now you've fallen even further
In places where it really matters,
When minutes turned to miles
You were somehow left behind

You've got me running in circles again,
'Cause even when I'm dreaming I'm right back where I started.
Just stay by my side and I'll show you forever,
Leave this behind and run away till we break the bend

So forget about the seconds,
I never knew how much you meant this,
How much you prayed this would never change
And always stay the same

You've got me running in circles again,
'Cause even when I'm dreaming I'm right back where I started.

Just stay by my side and I'll show you forever,
Leave this behind and run away till we break the bend
