she didn't need him she couldn't feed him and his father gets drunk and then he betas them they're livin in a run down trailer park he slips out of sight when it gets dark he's just gotta get outta there he's gotta get away and he doesn't really care what you think he needs another drink cause tonight he's getting an arm full of ink cause got beatin and he'll wear it on his skin they're more of a family than home has ever been well what the fuck'd you expect him to do!? he had no choices and you have no clue what the fuck'd you expect him to do in a world full of hate it's nothing new he found a feeling that he'd never have in the bottom of a spoon he's moving forward cause there is no turning back he gotta gat from a cutler ridge car Jack now he's rolling down the ave. well what the fuck'd you xpect him to do!? a nickel rock a gun shot in a parking lot somebody dropped...well what the fuck'd you xpect him to get a job like you when all he ever knew was surving the streets of goulds we were close when we were kids but he's gotta be hard cause thats the way he lives now he's locked in a cage so no one has to see him he's easy to forget society don't need him so they had him locked away but were the ones that pay 'cause they're selling his image to kids everyday now he's locked in a cage so no one has to see him he's easy to forget society don't need him,
