It's a very fine place to sit
When you see me over there and you find my hammer
It's a very fine place to sit
When you see me over there and you find my hammer
And the malls and the walls and the bees and the cars and the wars
And you find my hammer
It's a very fine place to sit
When you see me over there and you find my hammer

If I learn my ABCs
Count the figures in my head from one to ten
And the marvels that unfold
Holding parliament with voices within Outbursts of golden days
Hallways as empty as the sounds they make Nightmares who want to wake
Who'll go first?

I could make a difference
If I wander to the other side
I could make a wealth of this
If I'm willing to swallow my pride
I could make a difference

Trying not to make mistakes
And remember "Keep the words stuck to the pages"
Won't miss the boat, I can't be late
And when it's finished, what a life to be remembered.
Outbursts of foolproof ways
Covering acts of my disgrace
Choose wise and make my way
Walk with me, slowly.

I could make a difference
If I wander to the other side
I could make a wealth of this
If I'm willing to swallow pride
I could make a difference

Did you ever go boating on the waves?
Did you ever go boating on the big white sail?

Did you ever go boating on the waves?
Did you ever go boating on the big white sail?
