Album : Reinventing Axl Rose (2001)

velyn sits by the elevator doors it's been 37 years since james dies on st. patrick's day in 1964
but she could not hold it against him there were times when there was nothing she could do but lie in bed all day beside a picture of them together

and just like james, i'll be drinking irish tonight and the memory of his last work week wil be gone forever
evelyn i'm not coming home tonight if we're never together if i'm never back again well I swear to god that i'll love you forever evelyn i'm not coming home tonight in all the years that went by she said she'd always love him and from the day that he died she never loved again in his wallet she kept in her nightstand an a.a. card and a lock of red hair she kept secrets of pride locked so tight in her heart it killed a part of her before the rest was gone.

she said, "if I would have known just how things would have ended up
I just would have let myself die."
