We want a band that plays loud and hard every night That doesn't care how many people are counted at the door
That would travel one million miles and ask for nothing more than a plate of food and a place to rest
They'd strike chords that cut like a knife
It would mean so much more than t-shirts or a ticket stub
They'd stop at nothing short of a massacre Everyone would leave with the memory that there was no place else in the world
And this was where they always belonged
We would dance like no one was watching With one fist in the air Our arena just basements and bookstores across an underground America With this fire we could light Just gimme a scene where the music is free
And the beer is not the life of the party There's no need to shit talk or impress 'Cause honesty and emotion are not looked down upon And every promise that's made and bragged is meant if not kept We'd do it all because we have to, not because we know why Beyond a gender, race, and class, we could find what really holds us back Let's make everybody sing
That they are the beginning and ending of everything That we all are stronger than everything they taught us that we should fear
