Sarah was only twenty-one
She didn't know her way was wrong
She was too young... too young and crazy
Sarah left here one broken love...
And her broken life that soon turned off
But she still remains, she is present

Despite of lots of troubles, she was your love

When you're thinking about her at the dark night
You can see between shadows some lights
You remember the shine of her deep eyes
Sarah lives forever in your mind
When you're thinking about her at the dark night
You can see between shadows some lights
You remember the sound of her nice laugh
Sarah lives forever in your hearth

With Sarah you tasted the real love
Unselfish love with no doubts
Two hearths in one... Two joined eternally
If Sarah were with you now
She would tell you not to feel low
"Please don't cry... don't cry, my baby"

Further on the Death, she'll be your love

When you're thinking about her at the dark night
You can see between shadows some lights
You remember the shine of her deep eyes
Sarah lives forever in your mind
When you're thinking about her at the dark night
You can see between shadows some lights
You remember the sound of her nice laugh
Sarah lives forever in your hearth
