"Mother"

Everyday Everyday We not only get sick but get to hate it.

Whether there is understanding or not, we continue for now we continue.

Rain fell and washed away, The wind blew away.

The thing my tired body remembers, yesterday's conversation topic and last year's birthday. Depending on a familiar picture from a magazine, we left with empty hands we left.

Night painted out, Flowers bloomed and covered.

It was as wide as I could see, look at that sky !
Connected to that neighboring land, look at that sea !
For now I've forgotten everything.
I haven't forgotten an honest heart.

Rain and Wind, Night and Flower You supported me.

Wherever I may go I bring the huge sun with me.
There are no nuisances to prevent my way.
I knew I would forget everything.
I faced tomorrow with my true heart
We swore to the sea and the blue sky.
