"The Promise Of It's Shine"

I know someday it maybe soon
That there will be a time
Through far away I see a moon
The promise of it's shine

Traveling echoes of the past
I hear my baby calling fast
The spirit of the future's trip
Has brought his message back

"We wait for when the wind blows
The breath of life on thus
And the past becomes the future's life
We both breathe now for us"

Your words are few but not too late
I caught the smile upon your face
Although your song is but a chant
I hear the love call for romance

You know our love goes back in time
Between our souls the lives a line
I look to see what's left behind
Your heart has followed mine
