"You're Mine Tonight"

There is no need for explanation
Both of us know what's going on
An unspoken late night invitation
To keep till tomorrow
When you're back where you belong
But you're mine tonight
Your somebody's else's in the morning light
But you're mine tonight and that's all right
I feel emotion in the making
Kissing the lips that never lie
But I can tell someone else is waiting
To play in the fire I see burning in your eyes
But you're mine tonight
Your somebody's else's in the morning light
But you're mine tonight and that's all right
Don't know how often I have held you
Don't really know what this means
It's so hard for me not to tell you
You've been the star of my dreams
SOLO
It's foolish to think of revealing
How I've been yours for so long
There's just no future in the feeling
A taste of your love then tomorrow you'll be gone
But you're mine tonight
Your somebody's else's in the morning light
But you're mine tonight and that's all right
