Everyday I see something new, thanks to you
Everything changes in a way, for you
Who said that we have all the time we want
Who said that you'd be here with me for all
I know we never will, never will drown
I can't swim to the top
So yet we come to my own place
Farther out, I can't take all my mistakes,
Out loud
Can anyone just listen to me now?
Can anything be with me here right now
I know we never will, never will drown
I can't swim to the top
And if we ever do, ever do now
I can't take anyone
Sometimes I want to be someone else
Sometimes I want to be no one else
Now where you're going I have been, twice before
I've scribbled my name on the wall, before you
Just telling you how much this levels out
Just warning you that I might walk right out
